WHY PECANS ARE A GOOD INVESTMENT

A few trees well cared for will make you a fine living.

No high-priced land is required to grow a fine orchard; the cotton belt of the South is naturally adapted to their culture.

Land set to pecan trees increases in value every year.

Good varieties of pecan trees grown on stock from large, improved nuts will make a wise investment.

The South has a monopoly on pecan culture, as it cannot be pursued successfully elsewhere.

In sending out this price list for the winter of 1915 and 1916 am pleased to state that I have a fine lot of budded pecan trees on hand; that are budded on stock grown from large improved nuts which have a wonderful advantage over those budded on stock grown from small pecans. Now to be convinced I wish each of my customers and those interested to plant a few large nuts and a few small nuts, care for both alike, and see the wonderful difference. I find that trees budded on stock grown from large nuts develop into large trees more quickly.

I give my pecan nurseries my personal attention. I select buds from good bearing wood, so that my trees will give my customers the very best service possible. I have cut out such varieties as do not seem to be well adapted to the South.

I make a specialty of growing and budding pecans, being engaged in this industry for the past eleven years.

CURTIS. Size medium, shell thin, kernel plump, flavor rich and of excellent quality. It is very productive, being well adapted to the South. Has more good qualities than any variety I have tried.

VAN DEMAN. One of our finest nuts; of fine appearance; sells well.

PRESIDENT. Color bright yellowish brown, with a few broken stripes near apex; size 45 to 50 to the lb.; shell thin, cracking easily; very attractive, fine flavor, very prolific.

SCHLEY. Strong and vigorous grower, by many considered the ideal and leading sort.

MAY 4 - 1916

STUART. An old and well tried variety, considered a basis by which to measure quality of others.

TECHE. Size medium to large; color grayish brown with a few dark streaks; base and apex round; shell thin, cracks easily; quality good. very prolific; comes into bearing very early.

RANDALL. Medium to large nut; grayish brown; kernel plump, full, comes out of shell whole; has nutty flavor; quality good. Heaviest bearer I know of.

RUSSELL. Best adapted to the South. Nut medium to large in size, somewhat pointed at both ends. It is of good quality, shell very thin, bears well.

KENEDY. This variety came from the same lot of seed as that of the famous Curtis variety. Size larger than the Curtis. Tree strong and healthy grower, early and abundant bearer; quality the best.

CAMPVILLE, FLA., Oct. 14, 1915.

E. E. STOKES, CAMPVILLE, FLA.

Dear Sir: The 600 budded pecan trees I bought of you have been very satisfactory. I like your trees, as they have a splendid root system. I am convinced that where large pecan nuts are planted to grow stock on which to grow buds, they grow faster and make better trees.

Yours truly,

P. H. BAKER.

DUMAS, ARK., March 1, 1915.

MR. E. E. STOKES, CAMPVILLE, FLA.

Dear Sir: Shipment of budded pecan trees ordered of you arrived in excellent condition, and are the best developed trees in both body and root that we have ever handled. Tree planters will make no mistake in planting your trees.
